

Billionaire Lazard CEO Bruce Wasserstein vs. Underpaid New York Atria Worker

Billionaire Lazard CEO Bruce Wasserstein

- ✓ Is worth more than $2 BILLION.
- ✓ Just had a $100+ MILLION payday
- ✓ Has 5 homes. The one in New York City—"The Palace"—is 11,000 sq ft., has 25 rooms, and is worth more than $25 million.
- ✓ Owns New York magazine.

Underpaid Former Atria Worker, Radika Munna – Queens, New York

- ✓ Got a 20-cent per hour increase last year.
- ✓ Made $300 dollars a week in 2007.
- ✓ Lives in a basement apartment on Jamaica Ave.
- ✓ Has no healthcare. Can't afford it at $240/month.
- ✓ Was fired on Thanksgiving Day for trying to form a union for better working conditions.

Hardly seems like a fair fight does it?

Lazard Ltd. is a Wall Street firm which manages more than $140 billion. Atria Senior Living is owned by a Lazard-affiliated private equity buyout fund. Atria is the largest assisted living provider in New York, with 24 facilities.

Help support Lazard's Atria workers in their struggle for better conditions. Tell Billionaire Lazard CEO Bruce Wasserstein that Atria must follow the law and respect workers' rights—SIGN THE WORKERS' PETITION TODAY!

Sign the petition online at: www.ImproveAssistedLiving.org

Info@improveassistedliving.org * 800-441-2370

SEIU has a labor dispute with Atria Senior Living Group. We are not requesting a work stoppage or to cease delivery to any employer.*

